Riots Threatened At Migrants' Camp

Melbourne, July 18. Two hundred armed servicemen in a convoy escorted by five armoured cars and police units rushed to the Zonegilla migrant camp, about 185 miles northeast of Melbourne, today when Italian migrants there threatened to riot. The Melbourne Sun said today that during the past 24 hours the migrants had threatened to burn down camp buildings and march on the neighbouring towns of Wodongs and Albury.

The newspaper, quoting the spokesman for a migranis delegation, said they were unable to accept responsibility for he ections of floor lexamperated, then A camp spokesman told the Immigration Minister, Mr Harold Holt, that the migrants had been without work for four months and were now penniless.

. They had no quarrel with camp conditions or treatment the spokesman added. But they needed employment for a basic pay rate to contribute to their families in Italy and to buy personal necessities at the camp. Otherwise, they wanted immediate repatriation.—Beuter.

DEMOCRATS START PRE-CONVENTION WRANGLING

Chicago, July 18.

Rival Democratic Party delegations from Texas today wrangled over the right to be seated at next week's Democratic National Convention when the Party's candidate for the presidential election is to be chosen.

At stake before the Credentials Committee, which met today under a blaze of arc lights, are 52 convention votes from Texas and 18 from Mississippi.

The issue from Texas is whether the State's delegates will vote for the eventual nomince of the convention or whether they will keep in a position to support an "anti-Fair Deal" candidate.

The spotlight is on sport in Radio Hongkong's programmes for the coming week. The Olympic Master." Games open today in Helsinki, and this evening at 8.45 listeners in the Colony will be able to hear a relay of the BBC programme, "XVth Olympiad," which includes a description of the Opening Ceremony, the Parade of Nations, the arrival of the Olympic Torch, and the Taking of the Oath.

Also, throughout the Games, Radio Hongkong is planning to broadcast a regular "Olympic | Report," from the BBC commentators on the spot, each night at 10 o'clock beginning on Tuesday,

This would be a recorded London relay and therefore its suitability for rebroadcast would depend on reception conditions each day; but it is hoped that in this way Hongkong listeners will be given a comprehensive coverage of the events in general, and in particular those concerning the Hongkong team.

HIS week I carried out an anthropological survey of the customs and habits of the Eel Pie Islanders. One of the great advantages Eel Pie has over other islands in the Empire is that it's only half in hour from the West End of London. So you do not need to organise a marine expedition to get there. You can go by the ferry for 2d.

Eel Pie Island is about a quarter of a mile long by 80 yards wide, and lies in the Thames between Twickenham and Ham. The 60 inhabitants all speak English, and include 16 children, West End wine waiter, show girl from the Folies Bergere, several City business men, and a countess who keeps rabbits.

Master horologist's dream is realized— 104 years after his death

ABRAM-LOUIS PERRELET, of Lo Locle, in Switzerland, was born in 1729 and died in 1826. He was a watchmaker. A great watchmaker. And, greatest of his achievements; perhaps, was the invention of a self-winding watch. This pedometer, or jerkwinding pocket-watch, inspired men like Breguet and Recordon to emulatehim, and set the direction of research into the self-winding principle for the next hundred years.

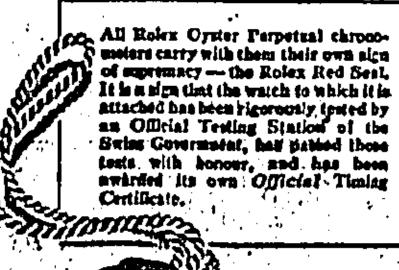

A typical pedometer watch, implied by Abram-Louis Perrelet's prototype. None of the watches made by him has survived.

But Perrelet's pocket-watch, though it wound itself, was not the final answer. The constant jerking told hard on the mechanism, and although perfect in theory, in practice the jerkwinder's shortcomings doomed it to failure from the start.

Different applications of the principle were used; different, often fantastic, types of watch made their appearance. But for two centuries after Perrelet's birth, no one had bettered his achievement; no one had produced a really practical self-winding

But then came the turn of the wizard of fashion to ply his eraft (with London designer Ian Meredith out in the limelight). To prevent Victorian fashions stealing the show and to illustrate that 1952 fashions are also important, he presented a collection of modern dresses inspired by the clothes of the film. So the sophisticated modern dress paraded side by side with its Victorian ancestor.

An example to ilustrate the point: In the film, the young actress Dorothy Tutin (as Cecily Cardew), wore a delightfully demure white organdle dress patterned with tiny blue flowers. It was ankle-length, high collared, long-sleeved, with enormous OLD Joyce Mountford, a cheerful young cyclist, was a familiar figure to early morning workers travelling along East Lancashire Road towards Swinton.

She took a pride in getting to work early, and many local folk said she was so regular that they could "get their clocks by her." On April 8, 1940, workmen travelling along the road as usual found her lying beside her machine. She died soon afterwards of the injuries she had received from being struck by a non-stop motorist.

Dr J. B. Firth was a comparatively unknown man in Lancashire then, and few people had ever heard of the squat, single-storey laboratory which had been opened in Preston less than nine months before.

But when Captain A. F. Hordern, Chief Constable of Lancashire, as the late Sir Archibald Hordern was then, heard that all the evidence his officers had been able to find

IT was one of the first major cases in which Dr Firth had been asked to help. Just over 12 months before he had been congratulated by Wigan magistrates for his part in getting an offertory box thief convicted. That had been his first appearance in court as a forensic expert from Preston.

The motorist who killed Joyce Mountford, at the same time "made" the reputation of Dr

So flimsy were the flakes of paint Dr Firth received that they might easily have been carried away in the breeze, and they were so tiny that together they barely covered a penny. Yet, Dr Firth realised, even

(By MAX FAULKNER) ...

The "oohs" and , "ahs" which come from the ladies nearly every time they see a professional strike a ball 250 yards down the fairway are invariably followed by the query...."Why is that you men hit so much further than women?".

Well, the answer is that hit further because they are stronger especially in their hands and arms.

So, if you want to hit further, ladies, follow the argument to its logical conclusion and build up the strength in your hands. No! There is no need to develop bulging muscles. All you need is sufficient strength to increase the speed with which the clubhead whistles through at the bottom of the swing.

HOW ABOUT MORE PRACTICE?

Much as I would like to be gallant, ladies, I can't pull any punches on this issue. The far, brought them chief trouble with most ladies is the League table. that they just don't like the idea of working at their game.

Instead of getting out on to and that is the ideal builderyou all insist on taking out your day cards or in playing your tea-party rounds. They are all very nice and to have them, but surely not every afternoon? They do your golf very little good.

As an alternative to the pracfice ground it is not a bad idea to have a long, lightish, club around the house for a bit of slon. swinging practice during any odd few minutes you can find during the day. You can't do too much. If you remember all the time that your aim is to whip the club-head through fast really fast-you will be surprised how much good you can do over a comparatively short period by regular swinging.

And while you are about 11.7 nine out of ten of lady golfers could profit by shortening the swing. You won't sacrifice foot of length by doing it. The long-swing-for-power idea is an illusion. The shorter swing hits just as far and cuts down the margin of error which can creep

ACCURACY FIRST

And now for those shots neartheir accuracy still comes back to that question of hand professional make an approach from a hundred yards; you'll see that he punches into the ball with a really firm, hard, shot and usually takes a substantial divot doing it.

Well, you ladies must do the same to get a good shot. Too the team which has laid low many of you tend to take a big- such a formidable opponent as get club than you need, and play a sloppy sort of ecoop shot. KDC. I don't think that gets you anywhere. For your approach shots -and your bunker shots-you must play; firmly and powerfully through the ball. And the more power you have in your hands and arms to do it the

: In other words, ladies, I think most of you would play far better golf if you were less ladylike in your approach to it. would like to see more of you stand with feet wider apart in the address, and really get aggressive in your strike. Don't pat the ball down the fairwayreally belt it down!

Finally, don't think too much about the length you can never uchieve. Concentrate on accuracy. Don't talk so much on the way round-think more of your shot.

As for equipment—a whippy shaft can be an aid to greater length; a little loft; on your driver isn't a bad "thing-and, (sweaters and jackets) are vital If you take a bit of trouble

The Lawn Bowls League

To Women INTEREST IS NOW CENTRED ON THE SECOND AND CHAMPIONSHIPS

As a result of Indian Recreation Club's surprise defeat at the hands of Taikoo Dock Club last Saturday, which leaves Recreio a clear field to the Championship title in the First Division, interest in the Lawn Bowls League now shifts to the Second and Third Divisions, both of which promise a close and exciting finish.

By "TOUCHER"

The Second Division has now become a race between Kowloon Cricket Club and Club de Recreio. Both teams enjoyed 4-1 wins during the week, with the Cricket Club a slender two points ahead at present of Recreio in the aggregate points.

Both teams are left with the same opponents in two of their three remaining matches, Filipino Club and IRC "B", and their last match of the season on August 2 will be against each other. This will in all likelihood take the form of a deciding match.

The Third Division will have four teams in close running—Divsion title, and that can only Kowloon Cricket Club, Kowloon be in the form of Rocrelo losing League standings now are:

Pixie McPlump Was Very Fat

_It Was All Because She Had Too Many Pockets!-

By MAX TRELL

"NOW," said Mr Punch as he lit his pipe and stretched himself out comfortably in his rocking chair under the sunny window. "there are all kinds of pixiesgood pixies, naughty pixies, thin pixies and fat pixies. The pixie I knew when I was a boy was one of the fattest pixles that anyone ever saw. Her name

Knarf and Hanid; 'the shadow - children with turned - about names, General Tin the tin soldier to whom Mr Punch was speaking, all exclaimed in one voice: "Ohi It was a girl-pixiel"

Sounded Surprised

"Certainly it was a girl-pixle!" Mr Punch said, sounding surprised. "Didn't you know there were girl-pixics?"

Knarf and Hanid and General pockets. In a month she was a Tin admitted that they had never beautiful pixie, and jollier and thought there were any girl- better-natured than ever. They pixies. "It seems odd to think called her Pixie O'Joy. It was of a girl-pixle," General Tin a much better name!" taid, "and especially a fat one. Mr Punch nodded. "She was a girl-pixie all right, and as fat as fat can be. Her name was Suette McPlump." "Even the name sounds fat," said Hanid. "She was all round, like a ball of yarn," Mr Punch went on. "It was sometimes hard to tell whether she was lying down or standing up. She was just as wide as she was tall. She had cheeks like balloons. But she was jolly and good-natured and quite smart, too....except for one thing."

"What one thing, Mr Punch?" "Pockets," sald Mr Punch. "Pockets? Pockets? You mean pockets for keeping things in?" Mr Punch nodded and smiled at the same time. exactly what I mean!"

Hanld said: "I don't understand what her pockets had to do wrong with her pockets?"

Too Many Pockets

Mr Punch paused a moment to enloy the bewildered expressions on the faces of his three friends,

Punch. "If you are going on a long journey, let's say to the Moon, where you can't stop off and buy things on the way for breakfast, or dinner, or supper, it's a wonderful thing to have your pockets full of things to cat But when you're playing just outside your kitchen door and you can be quite sure that all the good things you need are cooking on the slove, then it seems to me wrong to have your pockets full of things to eat.

The Wrongest Thing

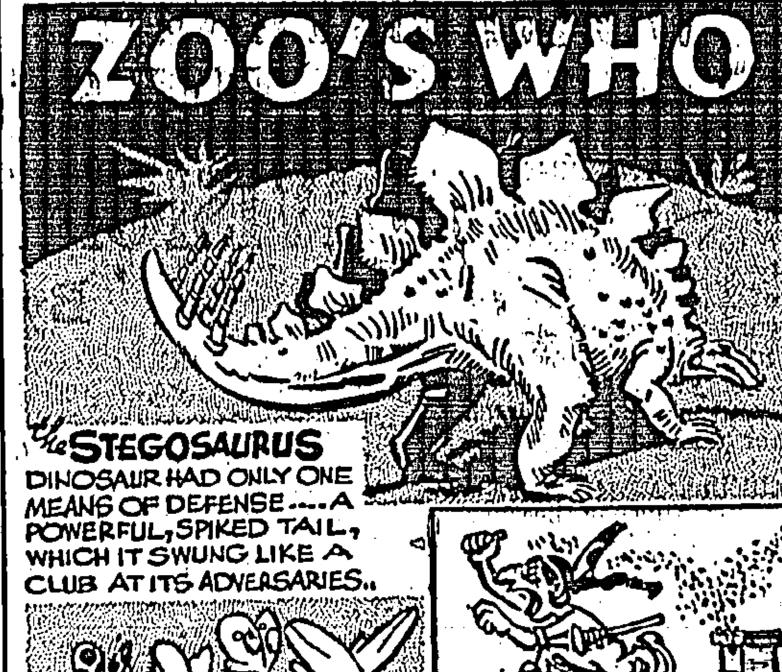

"But the wrongest thing about poor, fat, jolly but not-so-very-smart Pixie McPlump was that she kept eating those things all the time. She'd reach into one pocket and take out a stick of candy, she'd reach into another and take out a bar of chocolate, she'd reach into other pockets and take out gum-drops, licorice, lemon drops, marshmallows, lollypops and (if' I'm not mistaken) ice-cream cones and bottles of pop. And the more she ate the fatter she got.
"After awhile," Mr Punch

went on, "she got so round that they had to roll her in and out of the house." "And what happened to Pixle McPlump finally?" Hanid wanted to know.

DORN today, you are a strict individualist. You were not made to conform and unless you are promulgating a new idea, you can't be completely happy. Fortunately, you have been given a talent for leadership, as well as the ability to influence other people so that they, as a rule, fall, in line with your scheme. These who work along with you in the early stages of a project are those who will benefit from its success later on. You have that happy combination of creative ability plus practicality. No dreamer, you-but a successful idea-man who can make his own ideas work!

Your intuition is keen and you often sense things acutely before they happen. You are wise when you follow these "hunches." They often help you outguess a competitor. The chances are that you will accumulate considerable wealth during your lifetime. If you don't you will have only yourself to blame.

You are fond of the outdoors and you find that Mother Nature holds a kindly, healing power. When tensions run high, you can retreat to the country and regain your vigour and initiative. " Fond of travel, you will enjoy visiting the far corners of the earth, although you may wait until you have accomplished your main career-objective before you get very far away from home. You recognise the old adage that a rolling stone gathers little-if any -,

Your sharply analytical mind usually gets to the heart of a problem quickly and offers a sensible and immediate solution. Since your emotional nature is strong, you will be happlest if you have a home and family of your own. An early marriage should prove a happy and contented one.

> Manchester, July 10. Rain again interrupted the Test match between England and India here today, and England, with a score of 292 for seven, will resume on the third day with their first innings still unfinished.

It is possible that Hutton might declare first thing tomorrow if he believes that the pitch would suit his bowlers, in an attempt to force a victory.

There were only three and a t quarter hours of play possible today between the drizzling rain, and England were on top until the closing stages when Divecha and Mankad came into their own. Hutton, who took 75 minutes to score 15 for his 16th Test century, added only four more runs when he was caught by Sen, and England, having started the day with a score of 153 for two, were then 214 for three.

May batted attractively if somewhat luckly for 69, but with his departure, England gradually lost their grip on the game, and in the kist one and a quarter hours, four wickets fell for 58. Divecha, who had bowled well all day, took two wickets for 14 in his final spell.

Yet with these quick English wickets, some of the best batting of the . day was provided by Evans, in typical aggressive "Sonny" Monteiro

CAREER GIRLS

COMETIMES Maria must have envied Sheenagh: The two girls had much in common. Both were young, both came to London to embark upon that splendid but solemn business known as "a career."

Both found work in the same great London hospital; and the two shared a room. The differences between them were that Muria came from Italy, Sheenagh from County Mayo in Eire. Maria was of a thrifty nature, Sheenagh

The two were ward-maids in the hospital, and their pay was the same, £7 a fortalght, all found. So each had £3 10s. n week to do with what she would. Sheenagh spent her money fast, had a good time of sorts, and was always hard up. Maria ulso was generally hard up; but in her case it was because she saved her money against some great future occasion-marriage perhaps, or gifts to send to her parents, or a journey home. She did not enjoy the good time of sorts and so, I suspect, must sometimes have envied Sheenagh.

ODDLY, Sheenogh also envied Maria for the reserve of capital she was building up out -. of her forinightly pay. And there came a time when Sheenagh's envy soured into resentment and soured into indignation, and she began to ask herself bitterly why this injustice should be, why Maria's capital should mount while her own so rapidly disintegrated.

Sheenagh decided she must correct this evil, economic alchemy. One day, when Maria was out of the room they shared, Sheenagh tried her key on the lock of the wardrobe where Maria kept her things. The key turned, the wardrobe creaked open; inside it, Sheenagh found Maria's hoarded capital. The wardrobe did office as a safedeposit.

"She probably has reason for that," the magistrate observed.

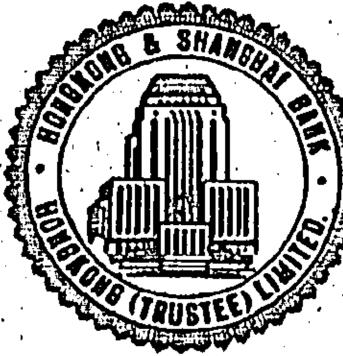

"Yes, sir. The girl says, too, that her father is working near London, but she cannot find his address."

"That's unlikely, isn't it?" "Yes, sir," the officer agreed.

CHEENAGH, a dark girl of 18, with frizzy hair and closeset eyes, had nothing to say to the magistrate, and he, turning the Goods have left the Godowns, to her said: - "You are a nasty little thief, I'm afraid. I shall have to consider this. You will be remanded in custody, for
